SEVEN RESCUED: BOAT ON ROCK IN LITTLE HELL GATE

Four Men and Three Women in Peril When Engine "Goes Dead."

HOLE TORN IN BOAT.

Police, Warned by Hospital Phone, Finally Rescue Party.

After having been thrown from rock Ward's and Randall's Islands early this morning, in a disabled twenty-eight and screamed. Wehren tred to women were rescued by patrolmen in a it was out of order. sunch from Harbor B. A hole had been stove in the boat and she was rapidly sinking. The women were hysterical and had torn off their white skirts to wave as distress signals, screaming at the same time for help, while the met were making an effort to stop the lead and get the boat off the rocks.

The screams of the women were finally heard by the telephone operator in the Manhattan State Mospital for the insane, on Ward's Island. The operator telephoned Police Headquarters. and in turn the harbor police were notified. It required thirty-five minutes for the patrolmen, owing to heavy sea and the downpour of rain, to affect the rescue, after which it was found necessary to abandon the motor boat.

The rescued party described them-selves as Fred Wehrso of No. 231 East their homes. Wenezo will try to get his boat off the rocks to-day. According to Webrao, the owner of the boat, which is named "Susie," the party went yesterday morning for a ruise up the Sound. They started for home early last night. As they prowent "dead," and it was two or three yours before it could be repaired. The homeward journey was resumed and they had reached a point opposite One Hundred and Fifteenth street when trouble was again experienced with the

The boat drifted through the East Channel in Little Hell Gate between the two tslands and was thrown from rock to rock. The women became neryour, but were assured that there was no danger. While the men were tinkering with the engine the boat was thrown to rock for nearly an hour by the strong ngainst one of the starp rocks which current in Little Hell Gate, between
